Speech-language pathologists help children with autism connect with the world around them.

Most people on the autism spectrum have difficulty with social interaction and communication.

S-LPs are uniquely qualified to address verbal and nonverbal communication challenges.

Find a speech-language pathologist near you. communicationhealth.ca